Sensirion current production dependencies on gas supply

Dear Customers/ dear business partners,

Sensirion would not be directly affected by a gas shortage. We do not need natural gas for our production processes and our production infrastructure, e.g. the air conditioning of our clean rooms, is not dependent on gas supply.

We are in close exchange with our electricity suppliers in order to make provisions for possible restrictions in the power supply. So far, there are no indications that this could happen. Depending on the scenario, it is conceivable that our production capacity could be reduced. We are already making provisions for this eventuality: Therefore we have further increased safety stocks in order to be able to supply without restriction even in such a case.

We will inform our customers immediately if the situation changes.

Yours sincerely,

Florian Hirsch
