

Dear Valued Customer,

March 1, 2022

the unforeseen impact of the Russia/Ukraine crisis is causing uncertainty amongst our customers and suppliers how raw material supply, supply chain or production sites are or will be affected by sanctions or embargoes.

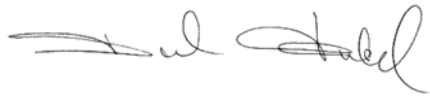

Given this situation, we would like to inform you that from today's perspective our supply chains and manufacturing operations are not affected.

At present, most of strategic vendors, such as Texas Instruments, Infineon, ADI, to name a few, have replied they see very limited impacts from the ongoing Russia/Ukraine conflict as their raw materials are sourced from multiple geographies outside of Russia/Ukraine.

We continue to monitor its effects on raw material and component suppliers world-wide and we will provide more updates if we start to see impacts.

Feel free to contact your usual Advantech contact person in case you have any question or remark.

Yours Sincerely
